

How to get help from your supervisor?

Your PhD guide is going to help you throughout the research procedure. However, you need to know how to avail the assistance of the supervisor to make the optimum use of the knowledge that your guide possess. Follow some simple steps, like getting to know the schedule of your guide and approaching him when he has time to explain concepts to you. Further, you must send your queries beforehand through email, so that the guide can prepare the solutions after doing a thorough research. Consult with the guide whenever you are confused or when you are taking an important decision regarding the study.